

NEW ORLEANS ATTRACTIONS

Whether you're looking for a relaxing night out with a nice bottle of wine, or what to dance the night away, New Orleans offers a nightlife experience that will fit any mood! You won't forget your night out in the French Quarter in New Orleans!

In addition, you might like to explore the following sites:

Historic Jackson Square, originally known in the 18th century as "Place d'Armes," and later renamed in honor of the Battle of New Orleans hero Andrew Jackson, is a timeless attraction in the heart of the French Quarter of New Orleans. This famous landmark facing the Mississippi River is surrounded by historic buildings, including the St. Louis Cathedral, the Presbytere and Cabildo (Louisiana State Museums), not to mention the Lower and Upper Pontalba Apartments, the oldest apartment buildings in the United States.

The National WWII Museum is the top-rated tourist destination in New Orleans and #2 in the U.S., and an unforgettable way to experience World War II — from industrial efforts on the home front to the combat experience of the American servicemember abroad. Offering a compelling blend of sweeping narrative and poignant personal detail, the Museum features immersive exhibits, multimedia experiences, and an expansive collection of artifacts and first-person oral histories to take visitors inside the story of the war: why it was fought, how it was won, and what it means today.

Louis Armstrong Park is a historic park located in the heart of New Orleans, Louisiana. Named after the legendary jazz musician Louis Armstrong, this park is a popular tourist attraction that offers a peaceful retreat from the bustling city streets. Visitors can stroll through beautifully landscaped gardens, admire statues of jazz greats, and enjoy live music performances in the park's amphitheater. The park also features a pond, walking trails, and historic buildings that offer a glimpse into the rich cultural heritage of New Orleans.

New Orleans Historic Voodoo Museum's exhibits focus on mysteries, history, and folklore related to the African diaspora religion of Louisiana Voodoo. It is situated between Bourbon and Royal Streets in the centre of the French Quarter. Although only a small museum, consisting of two rooms, it is one of few museums in the world dedicated entirely to Vodou art. There is a voodoo priest on site giving readings. Separately, the museum also hosts walking tours to the Marie Laveau tomb in the Saint Louis Cemetery and the Congo Square.

In Jean Lafitte's day, silver and gold filled a pirate's treasure chest, but today's treasures are people, places, and memories. Discover New Orleans' rich cultural mix. Learn Cajun traditions from people who live them. Watch an alligator bask on a bayou's bank. Walk in the footsteps of the men who fought at 1815's Battle of New Orleans. Jean Lafitte National Historical Park & Preserve shares the nature, history, and culture of Southern Louisiana.

Located on the Mississippi River adjacent to the French Quarter, Audubon Aquarium is consistently top ranked, voted as one of the top five in the country in the USA Today "10 Best" reader poll and ranked as one of the top things to do in New Orleans. The Aquarium transports visitors to an underwater world from the Caribbean to the Amazon Rainforest, to the waters that give New Orleans its lifeblood: the Mississippi River and the Gulf of Mexico. With more than 3,600 animals from more than 250 species, including endangered species, such as African penguins, and rare animals, such as white alligators.

St. Louis Cathedral is a historic church and popular tourist attraction located at 615 Pere Antoine Alley in New Orleans, Louisiana, United States. This stunning place of worship is the oldest continuously active cathedral in the United States and is known for its beautiful architecture and rich history. Visitors can explore the cathedral's intricate stained glass windows, ornate altars, and peaceful courtyard. Whether you are seeking a place for reflection and prayer or simply want to admire the beauty of this iconic landmark, St. Louis Cathedral is a must-visit destination.

New Orleans Museum of Art is committed to preserving, presenting, and enriching its collections and renowned Sydney and Walda Besthoff Sculpture Garden; offering innovative experiences for learning and interpretation; and uniting, inspiring, and engaging diverse communities and cultures. NOMA is New Orleans' oldest fine arts institution and most ambitious cultural convener. NOMA's permanent collection is at the heart of all museum programs and has grown from 13 works in 1912 to more than 40,000 today.

The New Canal Light or (more commonly New Canal Lighthouse or New Basin Canal Lighthouse) was first established in 1838 at the north end of the New Basin Canal which ran from Lake Pontchartrain to the Uptown or "American" section of the city which today is known as the New Orleans Central Business District. The canal was filled in about 1950, but the lighthouse remained on a jetty extending into the lake on a half mile long stretch of the canal that was left and is still used as a small boat and yachting harbor.

Located in historic Uptown New Orleans, Audubon Zoo features exotic and endangered animals from around the globe. Amidst canopies of great oak trees, experience the wonder of nature in a shaded wonderland that includes beautiful architecture, delicious cuisine, kids' play areas, and more. Explore unique natural habitats such as the award-winning Louisiana Swamp and see white alligators before grabbing some jambalaya at the Cypress Knee Cafe. Or, grab an icy snowball treat and head over to Jaguar Jungle after passing iconic Monkey Hill.
